APRIL 2017

Continued success and positive outlook for the future ... good reasons to encourage new folks to join us

Heading into 2017 there are many traditional and new activities which provide wonderful volunteer opportunities to help The Friends of Presqu'ile Park achieve our goals.

Membership in The Friends of Presqu'ile Park requires only a desire to help the environment at Presqu'ile and a willingness to share the wonders of our special Park with young and old alike.

We cannot fulfil these desires without many hands contributing in a wide variety of ways through volunteerism.

Here is a peek at what we have done, continue to support, and hope to undertake in the upcoming years.

EDUCATIONAL INITIATIVES
Again this year we will be providing extraordinary educational support to a wide variety of constituents:

Children from our community and further afield through our Kids 'n Nature Summer Day Camps. Parents and grandparents alike send their little ones to this camp — registration fills up quickly.

We support school classes and the current Ontario curriculum by offering trained naturalists and educators to provide hands-on demonstrations and outdoor education. Busloads of school classes attend the Park but it is The Friends who provide the educational experience by managing, training, programming, and paying the salaries of these educators. Without The Friends there would be no programs.

NHE (Natural Heritage Education) program support is provided by The Friends, who pay salaries for summer staff who run the Nature Centre and offer the many programs for Park visitors and campers.

ENVIRONMENTAL INITIATIVES
We continue to undertake various annual activities to give nature (the flora and fauna) a helping hand and fund scientific research in the following ways:

Helping endangered species' populations expand, like the turtles, by protecting them from vehicular danger and predation, which could overwhelm fragile populations such as the Common Tern.

Removal of invasive species of plants is an ongoing and extremely difficult challenge, and an effort to understand new science and promote active experimentation (Phragmites control) is ongoing.

TRAIL MONITORING AND REPAIRS
This is more than an enjoyable walk in the woods as it requires many hands, and feet too, to make our trails more pleasant to use.

These volunteers ensure that litter is removed and trails are safe to walk, and are clear of fallen branches.

Repairs and expansion of foot bridges over wet areas are an annual activity ensuring more access to our beautiful Park.

EXPANSION OF SUPPORT

the many activities our members expect and it points out a need to establish a longer view for future years.

LONG-TERM PLANS

Your Board spent time at our October meeting to learn, from Rob Cunningham, our Park Superintendent, about areas for future development of activities which fit with the Park's and The Friends' longer-term vision for the Park. At a recent Board meeting, eight intriguing areas passed the first stage of assessment. Some may take considerable effort and collaboration but others could start as early as the fall of 2017 and definitely happen within 2018. More details will be shared at our Annual General Meeting in June, and clearly more help will be needed.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP US OUT

In order for us to make progress we need help from our members now and must appeal to you all to consider joining us in this expansion effort. New members will bring new energy and skills and your help in recruiting friends and family to consider joining the Friends of Presqu'ile is needed. Please share this issue of the Beacon with those who may just need a little encouragement to become part of our wonderful organization.

Just one example of a role that is new, and would be very helpful to our Communications Team, is to recruit someone with Photography skills. Taking, editing, and cataloguing pictures is a skill we really need. This could be an expansion of a current hobby or a new outlet for creativity.

I cannot stress how very much we appreciate all of our volunteers who do a lot for us and still at the same time appeal for more. It is an opportunity for us to further improve as 'new blood' can bring many benefits to allow us to continue to be successful and also to expand.

April 1st News Flash - the paper-trail has ended!

(Spoiler alert, this is not an April Fool's joke.)

As of April 1st, 2017, The Friends of Presqu'ile have an active, on-line system for joining the membership; registering for the Kids 'n Nature program and Christmas at Presqu'ile Arts and Crafts Show; making donations; and volunteering.

Activities that have previously been handled by paper documents and cheques are now available through The Friends' web page. Here the forms can be accessed, detailed information entered, and payment made by credit card. With this system in place the detailed information gathered will be stored on a main server with all the current safeguards in place for secure retention.

The on-line registration system is a way to improve the level of communication between The Friends and its many contributors. This system allows members to change their own personal details, thus ensuring that they continue to receive the communications sent out by The Friends. Also, it helps to reduce the workload of the many volunteers needed to process and respond to these contributors using a paper-trail system.

The paper-trail system will remain in place whilst there are contributors who still prefer this type of system. However, it will eventually be eliminated by the transition to the on-line system.

Through the on-going work of The Friends' webmaster (Donal Gray) and the people at OSM Websites in Belleville, this system has been designed to be straightforward and easy to use Changes can be made to personal information as and when it occurs. Confirmation of these changes is then ensured by a system-generated response using the new information. All this is in the name of safety and security of the collected data.

Further enquiries can be made through the e-mail address shown below.

A fond farewell

Since 2007, I have been very privileged to be the Editor of The Beacon and oversaw the organic growth from an eight-page newsletter that was printed in black and white and had a limited print run of 300 or so. Copies were sent out by snail mail to our members, having been carefully folded and inserted in envelopes by May and Bill Wilson.

Today it is produced in full colour, the number of pages is limited only by the amount of information The Friends have to share, and it is sent out electronically to hundreds of individuals. We also post issues of The Beacon on our website so our readership is much broader.

In July 2016, Pete and I moved to Kincardine and we have since supported the new communication team during our handover.

They have taken the reins and are doing very well and have lots of great ideas so this will be my last issue as Editor of The Beacon.

The Friends of Presqu'ile Park is a very special group for us and we know its future is in good hands.

Jenny Alker

Volunteers wanted ... a sense of humour is essential ...
The Friends are grateful for whatever time and skills you are able to give.

The Friends are growing on-line

The Friends have steadily increased its use of electronic media over recent years, mainly concentrating on improving the website and electronic mail. After much debate and consideration we decided to embrace Facebook and Twitter in partnership with Ontario Parks.

Today we have a web site, a Facebook page, an Instagram account, and a Twitter feed. These will soon be joined by a YouTube account. It's not just that we have all these additional means of communication but our exploitation of their possibilities is changing fast.

By the time you read this, our web site will be enabled to take secure on-line payments for memberships, donations, and fees for the Kids N Nature program (see Janine McClintock's article in this issue for more detail), but it doesn't end there.

One of the ways we know our web site works is because of the numbers of you that use it. In the first quarter of 2017, we had:

Unique visitors	9,278
Number of visits	20,618
Pages visited	100,749

Most of our visits were from Canada and, not surprisingly, from the USA. But we also had a large number of visits from the UK, France, Russia, and China.

It appears that people don't just visit and go either. The figures indicate that many people come back more than once and that, when they visit, they look at multiple pages.

The Beacon itself has changed from a print publication to an on-line publication based on the print model which is what you are reading today.

As we move forward, The Beacon will change again to a web-based format which will allow you more choice on what you read. It will allow us to understand what stories are important to you based on what you read. That way The Beacon will be based on actual viewing statistics per story and will be more responsive to what you want.

All of this, combined with the immediacy of Facebook and Twitter, plus the video capabilities of YouTube, means that we will be able to inform you in ways that were not previously possible.

NEW — The Friends of Presqu'ile Park Bursary Program

Four Student Employee Bursaries and a Career Bursary

Visitors to Presqu'ile Provincial Park have grown accustomed to seeing the smiling faces of the Park staff, who greet them at the gate, keep the beaches and buildings safe and clean, and run the interpretive programs, the stores, and the Nature Centre. What many visitors don't realize is that most of the Park's employees are summer students.

There are many wonderful young people working as student employees in Presqu'ile Provincial Park. Each summer, the Park and The Friends of Presqu'ile hire over 60 staff. Their work is crucial to the success of the Park and its programs. We wish to recognize their work and encourage them to grow and develop for the future.

The Friends of Presqu'ile Park are pleased to announce the launch of two new Bursary Programs for the 2017 summer season. These bursaries are open to all students working in Presqu'ile Park.

The bursaries will reward exceptional workers, encourage post-secondary education, improve the image of working in all departments of the Park, and will support The Friends' Mission, Vision, and Values.

We all know that tuition, books, etc. are a massive item for young people at a time when they don't have the income to support it. The bursaries are designed to assist with these expenses and ease the career path of exceptional young people.

Student Employee Bursaries

These bursaries will be open to all student employees of the Park who intend to return to full-time education or trades training in the fall.

There will be four $500 bursaries available, one for each of the four departments in the Park – Maintenance, Store, Gate, and Natural Heritage Education (NHE) which includes the Nature Centre, NHE Interpreters, and Kids 'n Nature Camp.

Each department is equally important to the success of the operation of the Park. That is why The Friends wants to make sure that the students get recognized for their hard work.

The next time you visit the Park, take a look at all the vibrant young people working hard to make your visit a pleasant one. When you see a star performer in action, let us know.

Students can be nominated for their exemplary service and/or excellent work. Anyone who makes that extra effort could be a winner.

Nominations can come from the public, co-workers, supervisors, or senior park staff.

Nomination forms will be available in June. You will find them on our website, in the Park Office, at the Nature Centre, and at the Lighthouse Interpretive Centre.

If you don't have a nomination form, simply leave us a note at the Park Office or on our website. We will follow up with you.

An Awards Committee will select the winning candidates and present them with their bursaries before the end of August in time to apply the funds to their fall semester expenses.

An extra $500 will certainly help pay for books or tools. The boost that comes from having your good work recognized should help when motivation flags during the long school season.

Career Bursary

The purpose of this bursary is to promote careers in the parks among our student employees. Eligibility would be limited to those returning post-secondary students in a field of study that would lead to a career in our parks.

There are well over 20 possible fields of study with a clear link to a parks career. Students would be expected to explain their program of study and career goals in their application.

Candidates would also require the support of their supervisor who could address the employee's work accomplishments along with their leadership and teamwork skills.

Only one bursary is available each year; it is for $1,000.

The Awards Committee will review the applications. If a suitable candidate is found, the bursary will be given out before the end of August.

Natural Heritage Education (NHE) at Presqu'ile

Our Friends

What would we do without them?

NHE staff, supported by The Friends, deliver numerous summer educational programs Photo: D Davis

The Friends of Presqu'ile's mandate is to support educational and environmental initiatives in the Park. It is the former that I am most appreciative of, as it is the education department that I run at the Park. Our department is called Natural Heritage Education (NHE) and our goal is to help people connect with our natural world as well as our cultural heritage. Traditionally we do that through personal programming (mostly in the summer), interpretive signs throughout the Park, displays in our two visitor centres, and articles in our information guide (tabloid) and other print media. There is not one aspect of this suite of tools we use that The Friends are not there assisting us with.

By far and away the best way to connect with people and help them connect with our resources is through personal contact. The NHE staff do this through our programs and interacting with people in the Lighthouse Centre and Nature Centre. To do this we need people.

Having two visitor centres open all day, every day in the summer, AND offer 2 to 3 programs a day takes bodies, and we like to think not just any bodies but personable, well-trained interpreters.

Fully 1/3 of our NHE summer staff is directly supported by The Friends of Presqu'ile. We could not provide the level of programming we do without The Friends. And this not an easy commitment for The Friends to make on one level. This is one of their greatest financial drains but has the least concrete results to show for it.

No physical structure stands at the end of the summer but I believe the knowledge, respect, and enthusiasm we impart into our visitors for nature and history help build better citizens now and into the future and are well worth the investment.

The Friends also completely support the Kids 'n Nature School Group Program, again providing thoughtful, well-trained bodies, under the guidance of The Friends Board member Janine McClintock, to run that program. This allows us to expand our ability to provide education by bringing numerous school children into the Park in spring and fall to connect with nature.

The Friends are there in many other ways as well. They have contributed time and money into building boardwalks that allow us to get our visitors out onto trails, both with an interpreter, and on their own.

The Friends have financially supported many of our interpretive signs in the Park – all the ones you see along the Marsh Boardwalk come to mind. They help in the production of the tabloid and in displays in the Nature Centre.

Friends volunteers, ably recruited by Nancy Sutton, are crucial in keeping our Visitor Centres open in the summer as they take up shifts on Wednesdays to allow the NHE staff to gather for management meetings and professional development activities.

And it has been the Bouchers, Friends volunteers, who have kept the Lighthouse Centre (and The Friends' Gift Shop) open on weekends in spring and fall, thus allowing a whole different clientele to experience our cultural heritage displayed there, as well as access those indoor washrooms.

Finally, do you remember that word 'traditional' I used way back in the first paragraph? In the last year we have been going beyond traditional (at least for me), with a Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram feed. This has allowed us to communicate with a whole new clientele as well as keep in touch with our summer visitors. It is a service we share with The Friends, and co-editors, Janine McClintock and Anja Croes, have been crucial in keeping those services running smoothly and me on track.

Brighton's 5th History Open House

February 18, 2017

Over the years, The Friends have had a lot of fun joining in on this weekend of celebration of history in and around Brighton.

This year our display showed a time line of historic pictures and documents from 1863 to the present day.

Ryan Pearce helps out at Brighton History Open House

We began by showing a painting of a military man taking a few days fishing leave on Presqu'ile in 1863 and we showed early documents of land ownership (the history of the Atkins family) and then photographs through into what our kids think of as the Middle Ages, the 1950s — with a photo showing automobiles parked on the beach. Our display then showed modern day initiatives for The Friends in education and the environment, rounding out the display with a photo of the history-making event of 2016 — Piping Plovers were known to nest in Presqu'ile Park for the first time in 100 years.

All this was designed to attract visitors so that our volunteers would give out more information about The Friends and the Park, and it also gave them the ideal opportunity to sell Draw tickets.

What better way to add to the celebration than to have an annual Ontario Parks pass as the prize for our draw? Lots of people wanted a chance to win. Based on the tickets we sold, pretty well everyone at the History

Open House wanted that chance. We raised nearly $500 and all proceeds will be invested in our projects in Presqu'ile Park. Hats off to all the volunteers for doing such a terrific job.

Even last year's winner, Lindi Pierce, came back to try her luck again but she was not so fortunate this time. Liz Chatten's ticket was drawn and she was present to take the prize — and what a prize! With Presqu'ile Park on the doorstep, an annual Ontario Parks pass is a very special prize.

Our congratulations to Liz on her win and we hope that she enjoys many happy hours in our most beautiful of parks.

'I now have a second family'

by Ryan Pearce

Have you ever thought about volunteering... if only you knew where?

Hi, I'm Ryan Pearce, a proud volunteer at Presqu'ile Provincial Park, and I'm going to explain what it takes to be a volunteer, what a difference it can make, and what volunteering means to me.

It doesn't take much to be a volunteer, all you need is some determination. By volunteering you can make a difference in your surroundings, meet wonderful people, and especially have fun with whatever you're doing.

Volunteering is all about helping to accomplish a task, complete a job, or even assist in an event, all of this just by your own free will. If you volunteer you shouldn't get paid, the reason why you volunteer is because you want to make a difference in your life, in the community, and for future generations.

I am fairly new to Canada, as my family and I emigrated here from England two and a half years ago, and since then we have definitely adapted to the new life. We left all of our family behind in England. We still keep in contact, but since I started volunteering with The Friends of Presqu'ile I think I now have a second family.

I am a young volunteer that simply wanted to help the community, and Presqu'ile offered so many opportunities. I was always a shy young boy who was afraid to talk to people, but that definitely changed. The volunteers at Presqu'ile welcomed me and were truly kind and caring.

Now I have made many friends, by simply wanting to make a difference. I have helped out with a few events such as the Presqu'ile tent at Applefest and Christmas at Presqu'ile; there were so many moments to remember.

Waterfowl Weekend 2017

One always hopes that the dates picked for Waterfowl Weekend correspond to the melting ice edge of Presqu'ile Bay being at Calf Pasture to maximize duck viewing.

This year that would have been February 16th! But wait! The bay froze up again in March (never seen that happen before) and the second melting of the ice brought the edge into range about March 20th. Oh so close for our March 25-26 dates.

Such uncertainty illustrates the roller coaster of hope and emotions that always precedes our big spring weekend.

So in the end the ice edge was in the wrong spot, the weather was quite grey and windy, and the weather forecast kept using the phrase 'freezing rain'.

Regardless, the show does go on, and, as always, over 40 volunteers cheerfully marshalled themselves for the 41st Waterfowl Weekend. From that standpoint it was once again a great weekend with the many volunteers coming out and enjoying interacting with our visitors.

The ducks were OK as well. While diversity was down and most ducks were scattered over the open bay there were a few that allowed very close looks at both Calf Pasture and Coot's Point. The latter is a new location for this weekend, part-way along the residential road.

Redheads, both scaup, Hooded Mergansers, American Wigeon, and Bufflehead all allowed close inspection and other species were further away but still wonderful when using the available scopes. The scope at Calf Pasture also allowed a distant view of an adult Bald Eagle that obligingly stayed perched for most of Sunday.

Really the only thing missing were people, things seemed very quiet, though even that was a bit misleading. Over 800 people came through the gates, which actually compares to some of the quieter years in the past 12, but for whatever reason not as many as normal of those people were going to the buildings or the duck stations? Just driving around, I guess.

The many wonderful volunteers all had great things to say. 'The fewer numbers allowed us to spend more quality time with each visitor' or some variation on that theme was something I heard a lot

In the end those that came seemed to enjoy their visit, volunteers had fun, The Friends covered their BBQ expenses and made some money at the gate and store, and the freezing rain never really showed up. A success once again.

Thanks to all who made it possible.

Warblers and Whimbrels Weekend May 20-21, 2017

It's hard not to get excited as the days grow longer and warmer. Particularly this year after a very strange winter that had the ice off Presqu'ile Bay by the end of February and then frozen solid again in mid-March. Enough already! But the days are getting longer and spring comes with all sorts of promises, not the least of which is the prospect of returning birds.

Cape May Warbler, Presqu'ile

The migration of billions of birds into the northern half of North America each spring is one of the greatest natural phenomena on the planet. A pleasure for all, and for bird watchers an opportunity to see a lot of birds, and a lot of different species of birds, in a very short time.

Presqu'ile is well situated for visitors to appreciate this phenomenon. Our geography, as a point sticking out into the lake, and our diversity, with many habitats, attract a great number of migrants every year.

WEATHER MIGRANTS and DAYLIGHT MIGRANTS

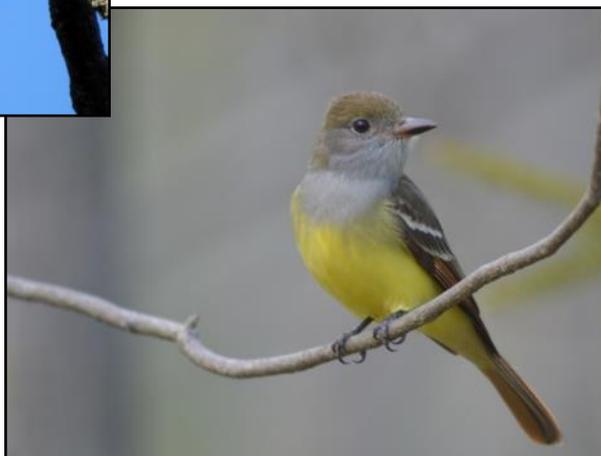

Migrants come in two types, the weather migrants and the daylight migrants. The weather migrants push the envelope, coming back as soon as conditions on the ground can support them. This type of migrant includes the waterfowl, herons, gulls and terns, and some passerines like robins, grackles, and cowbirds. These birds usually come back sometime in March and April and this year a few in February.

By contrast, the daylight migrants take their cue from changing day lengths and start back north at about the same time every year. These birds are mostly insect eaters and they can't afford to come early just because the weather seems nice and then have it turn cold when they get here. Insects stop flying in the cold and these birds will starve. Therefore they are pretty predictable in their return, arriving in numbers here in May. Daylight migrants include most of the song birds, such as warblers, and the shorebirds.

Presqu'ile's Warblers and Whimbrels Weekend (May 20 and 21) is situated to take advantage of this latter wave of migrants and has a number of events designed to assist people in identifying and appreciating our many migrants.

SCHEDULED BIRD WALKS

An early morning bird walk is scheduled for the Lighthouse at 7:00 am. For those that want to start a little later, we will have another walk at 10:00 am. At 2:00 pm, we will have a guided walk along the Owen Point Trail to look for shorebirds. All these events will run both days.

BIRD-BANDING

We are also very fortunate to once again have Elizabeth Kellogg and Roger Frost present to demonstrate the art of bird banding and allow visitors to get some close looks at our feathered friends.

They will be banding in the Owen Point Parking lot between 8:00 am and noon, weather permitting (unlike birding, banding cannot be carried out in the rain as it is too hard on the birds).

and ... DON'T MISS

The Park's Lighthouse Interpretive Centre will also be open both days, from 10:00 am to 4:00pm. The Friends' Lighthouse Gift Shop will be open and The Friends will be running their fund-raising BBQ both days, from 11:00 am to 2:00 pm.

This is the last weekend to get raffle tickets for a fine Bushnell scope set.

See you there.
